Learning Highlights

Math

We continue to practice, practice, practice, division! I am so proud of the students' hard work and perseverance with this challenging topic. We have also started multiplying two and three digit numbers. Remember to encourage your child to study those basic multiplication and division facts each night!

Writing

Each student wrote an essay about a wise person in his or her life. The students came up with such meaningful things to say about the many important people that have touched their lives. Right now the essays are being read by Mrs. Nogueira, but be sure to look for your child's wise person essay in his or her folder in the next few weeks.

Reading

We spent the month of January reading the novel, Stone Fox! We had wonderful conversations about the characters in the story. The students even took on the role of a news reporter and wrote a newspaper article about the big dogsled race!

Social Studies

We have just finished our journey into the Southwest. The students learned about many important aspects of the Southwest's economy, land and culture. They are finishing up their projects, which I am so excited to see!

Biography Book Reports

These projects came out excellent! I am so proud of the student's hard work!!!

"Valentine Exchange"

As Valentine's Day approaches I would like you to know that your child will have an opportunity to exchange valentines in the class on February 12th. The students will make bags to hang on their desks and students will be able to pass out valentines in those bags. At the end of the day we will open our bags and read our valentines. I only ask that if your child wants to bring in valentines to share, he or she brings one for everyone in the class. If anyone is interested in sending in a snack
